A FOOLISH OLD IDEA.

It was once thought that a medicine was all the more benehead for having a nasty taste and smell. We now know that such att idea is perfect nonsense. There is no more reason why medicine should offend the senses than why food should do so. Therefore, one of the greatest chemical victories of the past few years is what we may on I the redemption of cod liver oil. Everybody knows what a vile taste and smell this drug has in its natural state. No wonder most people declare they would rather suffer from disease than emulsions are as bad, no matter what may be alleged to the conlaws that a medicine which disgusts the hose and the palace. and also sinkens the stomech, can have no good effect as a ried out to be delivered from it. Neuralgia is an unfailing warning that the nervous system is feeble because there is a lack of pure red blood and, therefore, a lack of nourishment to the nerves. This dependence of the nerves upon the blood for their nourishment and health is fully described in our booklet, "Diseases of the Nervous Sysquest.
